

6. Obtain water from a clean source so it is free from potential contamination.
7. Ideally, it would be best to keep your pets away from the flock to prevent possible disease transmission.

How Do We Keep the Poultry Away from the Germs?

1. Prior to the arrival of new birds, clean and disinfect their housing to ensure that there is no build-up of potential disease pathogens from previous flocks.
2. If birds are housed on a dirt flooring, turn over the top layer (3 inches) of soil. This can help reduce potential exposure to pathogens and parasites that may be present in
